resilience

“I thought I could do it all: spouse, parent, friend, employee, caregiver. Most days I could hold it together, until one day I realized I couldn't anymore. I needed help. Thankfully, my manager reminded me of my work-life benefit.

A work-life specialist listened to my concerns, guided me through care options and provided referrals and resources for my elderly mother. Their assistance with the legwork saved me the time and stress of finding information on my own. Knowing my mom now has the care she needs gives me comfort and allows me to focus on other aspects of my life I'd been neglecting.”
